Passage of Hill Providing for Commission Arousea Interest.

Navy aviators have done much toward making aviation safer by their experiments with automatic stabilizing devices, and the resulting simplifications in the Dutre stabilizer. This improved stabilizer, which depends for its action on the pressure of air guists on pianes attached for the purpose, and the cluris gyrosodpic stabilizer will be tried out by the Navy Department in the near future.
Stabilizers have given great satisfaction in France, where they have been tested, and it is felt by all interested in aviation that such devices will soon come into general use.

Much interest is being shown in aviation circles in the meeting of the Aerodynamical. The commission was recently appointed by Freatheath Taft to consider the establishment of an aeronautical institution in Washington. A resolution providing 5,000 for the expenses of the meeting has been passed by the Senate and is expected to be acted on favorably by the House to-morrow.

BALL QUESTION

Says the President-elect Should Have Spoken Sooner-Plan Afoot for Capital Reception.

Members of Congress have been divided into three groups by the action of President-elect Wilson in calling off the insugural ball. The first group consists of those members who oppose the action of Gov. Wilson in abandoning the ball. These members claim that it is outrageous to think of abandoning the ball at this late date. Representative Estopinal of Louisiana yesterday said:

"If President-elect Wilson had any dear of ealing off the insugural ball, he should have done so long before now, It is unfair to the men who for weeks have neglected their husiness to make preparations in order that it might be a success. He should consider the feelings of the people of Washington who have their hearts set on attending the inaugural ball.

The second group of members cansists of the members who were opposed to holding the hall in the Pension Office. They are glad President-elect Wilson has taken steps to prevent it, for many Democrats heatile to the plan have been saved the embarrasament of having the vote against the resolution permitting the use of the Pension Office for a Democratic inaugural.
